Kate L. McDonald

Shareholder

Kate McDonald is licensed to practice law in Colorado, Wyoming, and the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. Ms. McDonald's practice involves civil litigation matters with a primary focus in the construction industry. She has successfully represented homeowners, developers, declarants, builders, contractors, subcontractors, and other construction professionals in cases involving construction defects, breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, mold/remediation, mechanic's liens/foreclosure, product defect, consumer protection, ADA compliance, construction accidents, and delay/acceleration/lost labor claims. In addition, Ms. McDonald has handled several cases involving claims in personal injury, wrongful death, premises liability, employment, and constitutional law, as well as provided coverage opinions and contract review.

In 2005, Ms. McDonald received her Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. After college, Ms. McDonald held the position of a Worker's Compensation Claims Manager for Travelers in Diamond Bar, California. She then attended Michigan State University College of Law, where she earned her Juris Doctorate degree, cum laude, in 2010. While attending law school, she interned at the Governor's Legal Counsel in Lansing, Michigan and clerked for the Litigation Department at the City Attorney's Office in Denver, Colorado.
